Pre-Novel Literary Foundations in England (Late 16th – Early 17th Century) Before the novel emerged as a distinct genre, English literature was predominantly composed of poetry, drama, and prose works that laid the groundwork for narrative innovation. This period was rich with storytelling traditions that would influence novelistic forms later on.

The Influence of Romance and Medieval Narratives The roots of the novel can be traced back to medieval romances—adventure tales featuring knights, chivalry, and quests. These narratives were characterized by their episodic structure, emphasis on individual heroism, and fantastical elements. Notable examples include The Knight of the Swan (c. 1380) and Le Morte d'Arthur by Sir Thomas Malory (1485).
